Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

- 1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
- 2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
- 3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
- 4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US Patent No. 6,699,997.

Dermination of the scope and contents of the prior art.

US Patent No. 6,699,997 discloses a process of preparing Carvediol comprising reacting a compound of Formula

with a compound of Formula and 7; see claim 1)

at an acidic condition in the presence of a solvent. (See column 6

Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the instant claims.

The molar ratio of reactants recited in the present Application is slightly different than the molar ratio of reactants in the prior art process. Moreover, in the process of the present Application, additional steps are required, namely the formation of salt, its purification and the reaction with base to get free Carvediol.

Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art

The prior art process use the same reactants as the present application and leads to the prepartion of Carvedilol with satisfactory degree of purity. The Courts have decided per In re Boesch, 205 USPQ 215 (1980), that the optimization of variables, such as pH and molar ratios, in a known process is prima facie obvious. Therefore, the claimed process would have been suggested to one skilled in the art.
